

SPORT NEWS and COMMENT

When the Tigers line up against Drake tomorrow a majority of the regulars probably will be on the sidelines, for Coach Schulte is planning to send several of his second string men against the Bulldogs so his crippled stars can get in shape for the Jayhawk battle. Slusher and Bass will probably be the ends with Hudson and Groves at tackles. McAnaw and Preston will hold down the guard positions. Hamilton will play center. The backfield will be composed of Stankowski, White, Collins, and Morris. Giltner, Wilder, Rider, McMillan and others may get in the game if Drake proves too strong.

Thus, only five of the men who started the game against Washington on October 14 will face the Bulldogs at the start of tomorrow's game. Against the Pikers, Giltner and Wilder were the ends, Van Dyne and Muir the tackles, McAnaw and Preston the guards and Hamilton center. Stankowski was at quarter with Rider, Collins and Haines forming the rest of the backfield. Of the men who started against Washington, but who will not start tomorrow, Van Dyne is no longer in school, Muir is out for the rest of the season with an injured leg, Rider is being given a rest, Haines is out with a lame leg and Giltner and Wilder are in no condition to play because of injuries. The only men who start tomorrow at the same positions they held against the Pikers are Preston and McAnaw, guards, Hamilton center, Stankowski quarter and Collins half.

Navy Hasn't Scored Touchdown on the Army in Nine Years.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—When the Army and Navy football teams go into action for their annual meeting at the Polo Grounds on November 25, there will be a goal besides victory for which the Navy probably will play as hard as for victory. Victory can come by drop-kicks, place-kicks or safeties, but a touchdown is a touchdown, and the Navy hasn't put over one of that kind on the Army since 1907, when Captain Ben Douglass had the pleasure of falling over the Army goal line. The Middies have a stronger string team this year than has represented the Annapolis school for some time, so it is reasonable to believe they will be able to put a dent in the Cadet's goal. They were equal to the task of slapping a close score against the powerful Pittsburgh eleven, and with this to go on it is hard to see how the Army will be able to hold them entirely free from a touchdown.

Many a football star has had a chance to plant a football between the Army goal posts for the Navy since Douglas laid over that touchdown, but four classes have ambled their way through the school and out into their duties aboard Uncle Sam's battleships without seeing the Navy teams accomplish that touchdown.

Defeat hasn't been their lot in those intervening years every year. Field goals have brought the future admirals victory three times in the seven games played since then. In 1908 Lange kicked a goal from placement, but the Navy lost, 6 to 4, field goals counting four points at that stage of football. The 1909 game was called off because of a death at West Point. In 1910 Dalton booted one over the Army goal posts and the Navy won, 3 to 0. In 1911 Dalton repeated his stunt and the Navy won by the same score. Brown made two field goals in the 1912 game and the Middies won their third consecutive victory, 6 to 0.

The 1912 game was the last to go to Annapolis. In 1913 Brown three times sent the oval over the Army goal posts but it wasn't enough, the Army winning, 22 to 9. In 1914 and 1915 the Army won.

Stankowski Looks Like Giant to Tulsa Paper.

Some persons see things in a big way. A Tulsa, Okla., paper, in commenting upon the condition of the Oklahoma players, says: "Cotton" Kramer, right tackle, is out for the remainder of the season. In the Missouri-Oklahoma game, Kramer was tackled by Stankowski, the Missouri giant, and suffered an injured hip."

Besides the Kansas-Nebraska tilt at Lincoln on Saturday, there will be at least two other games of importance to followers of Missouri Valley football. Ames will meet Iowa in their annual contest, and the Kansas Aggies will hook up with Bennie Owen's Sooner team. The Ames-Iowa game is as much a football classic to Iowa fans as the Missouri-Kansas game is to Missouri fans. From present indications the Ames team seems to have a shade, although Iowa came back strong against Northwestern last week. The other conference team playing outside the conference also appears to have the advantage on its opponent. Judging from its games against Missouri and Kansas, the Manhattan team should have little trouble disposing of the green Oklahoma team, although Owen should have the Sooners in better shape by this time.

RURAL LIFE CLUB REPORTS

Advocate Complete Change in Curriculum of Country Schools.

The Rural Life Club composed principally of professors of the University, has just finished a thorough examination of the rural schools. They report that the schools no longer meet the need of the very large members of those who must depend upon them for instruction and training.

The club advocates a change in the curriculum. First, to make present subjects such as arithmetic, geography and physiology, more local, applied and practical, then to add courses dealing with fundamental facts of rural economic, social, civic and institutional life of the rural community. They would demand better prepared teachers, also medical and dental inspection and supervision.

The club also advocates a rural social center organization to procure recreation, instruction and culture. The committee consisted of L. L. Bernard, who is president of the club, S. D. Gromer and Abner Jones.

WOULD HAVE EDUCATION BOARD

Dean Loeb Reads Suggestions to the Teachers' Association.

Dr. Isidor Loeb, dean of the University faculty, read a report of the special committee appointed to draw up suggestions relative to the educational sections of the new State Constitution at the meeting of the State Teachers' Association in St. Louis yesterday.

The report advocated a state board of education to consist of seven members appointed by the governor. This board would serve without salary and would be advisory. The term of office is placed at seven years. It was further recommended in the report that district units be changed to county units, and that special state and county taxes be levied for the support of public schools.

COLUMBIA WOMAN A BUSINESS SUCCESS

Mrs. W. W. Charters Is Land Speculator as Well as Housekeeper.

TO IMPROVE TRACTS

Lots in Westwood to Have City Conveniences and Ozark Rusticity.

Women of today have already clearly demonstrated that they, as well as their fathers, brothers and sons can carry on business deals and even head business offices, but there are still few women who can do this besides successfully running a household and caring for a family.

Mrs. W. W. Charters is one of Columbia's business women although she has no office except her home on Glenwood avenue. She has had considerable experience in dealing in real estate and in housebuilding. Her latest venture is the purchase and development of twenty-two lots near her home in Westwood. The property lies between Glenwood and Edgewood avenues along the line of Westwood avenue south of Lathrop road. It is the last wooded tract in Westwood and its chief attraction lies in its beautiful trees.

Mrs. Charters has named her property "Wildwood" and is making plans for improving it. She hopes to have Lathrop road between Westwood and Glenwood avenues vacated and include the land in her lots. She will put in Westwood avenue along her property and the city will lay a sidewalk from Westwood to Edgewood along the Lathrop road line. There will be a cinder and rock path through to Glenwood. The lots will be reached most conveniently by Stewart road and Edgewood avenue.

Mrs. Charters has studied out the best plans for house and garden on each lot. The landscape plans involve tracts of two lots each large enough for fruit trees, gardens and other characteristics of country homes. The lots are hillside sites making it possible for the prospective owners to have basement garages. The front doors of these new homes will face on paved avenues and there will be all city conveniences, while at the back one seems to be in the Ozarks themselves.

"The Best-Dressed Bunch I Ever Saw"

A traveling man who is an ardent follower of the Tigers and who hasn't missed but two Missouri-Kansas games in fifteen years told us, the other day, there was another feature of the annual event that he enjoyed nearly as much as the game itself. When asked what it was, he said:

"It's that parade the Missouri boys have just before the game. Those fellows are the most enthusiastic and best dressed 'bunch' I ever saw."

And this territory comprises a large part of the Missouri valley. Naturally, we "swelled" a little when he said "Best Dressed"—because the the great majority of those smart Suits and Overcoats in that parade usually bear the BARTH LABEL.
